▸ Your Financial Aid History Information

The information below is the total amount of student loans that you owe. These loans are administered by the U.S. Department of Education (ED). You should confirm that these loan totals are correct. You can view details on the individual loans that make up these totals at the National Student Loan Data System \(NSLDS\) Web site. If you feel that the amounts listed on this page are incorrect, or you have other questions related to a loan, you should contact the loan servicer indicated on the NSLDS Web site. You can obtain general information about each of the types of loans that are listed below by visiting our StudentAid.gov Web site.

Note that the "Subsidized" and "Unsubsidized" amounts include the appropriate portions of any Consolidation Loans you may have. If there is an amount listed for "Unallocated Consolidation Loans" it is because we could not determine whether those balances were subsidized or unsubsidized.

Remember you are responsible for repaying all of the amounts that you borrow, plus interest. As a general rule, with an assumed interest rate of 5%, the monthly payment amount over a ten-year repayment period would be approximately $10.61 for every $1,000 that you borrowed. Of course your actual repayment amount will depend upon how much you borrow, the interest rate when you enter repayment, and how long your repayment term is.

My name is Kyra Hill and I am a senior at HHS SciTech Campus. I have been researching the field of Speech Pathology with the goal of becoming a Speech Language Pathologist. I plan to major in Communication and Science Disorders and to complete 6 years at a 4-year college in order to obtain my masters degree. I will then take more classes related towards this field in pursuance of my license.

I did not always want to be a Speech Language Pathologist. I always saw myself pursuing a career in creative arts such as writing or graphic design. However, dealing with the challenges and adversities I have faced have made me want to be there for others. I never want to allow others to feel as alone as I once did. I want people to know that there are people who genuinely care and want to support them.

During my freshmen year of high school, everything changed. It was here that I was diagnosed with a ticking disorder, otherwise known as Tourette's. Normally, children are diagnosed from 4-7 so I felt invalid being diagnosed so late. However, it was during this year that my disorder worsened and I didn't know how to properly cope with it. The first time that I felt as if someone understood me as I tried to explain my symptoms was when I met my physician. It was through her that I better learned how to manage it.

Since both of my parents are working-class citizens, they don't have the funds to properly put towards my education. I have applied to certain grants and scholarships to hopefully better help with financial aid. With the help of this scholarship, I could afford to pursue my dreams so that I can help others struggling with communication.

To whom it may concern:

Without hesitation, I recommend Kyra Hill to your school. Having had the unique opportunity to teach her in both 9th and 11th grade English, I've been able to see the tremendous growth and incredible hard work that Kyra has exhibited over the years, and her passion for learning is unmatched against any of my former or present students.

The expectations that we place on all of our students at SciTech are very high. Being a magnet school, we expect every student who walks through our doors to prepare to go to college. Because of this expectation, our courses are extremely rigorous as we prepare our students for college, and make up for any discrepancy in skills from K-8 grade. My 11th grade English class is no different. We read a number of college level fiction and non-fiction readings, and analyze these texts through a variety of lenses (feminist, marxist, critical race, etc.).

Kyra has distinguished herself as an exceptional thinker who leads by example. Even as a ninth grader, she was wise beyond her years in her ability to synthesize information and create original analysis of literature. She set herself apart from her peers in 11th grade English during our Socratic Seminars on Their Eyes Were Watching God, where she led her group into a thoughtful and nuanced discussion analyzing the text as a black-feminist novel. She thoughtfully delegated tasks to her group, led the research process, and made sure that students were on task so that when their group was presenting, every single student participated fully and deeply thanks to Kyra's leadership.

One of the most impressive traits about Kyra is her ability to grow as a learner. She could easily cruise and get A's, but she is constantly seeking to be a better student and has greatly improved her ability to internalize feedback and apply it to future work. She has taken the most rigorous course available at our school, and has excelled in all her classes because of her natural gifts and desire to improve.

Kyra has also grown tremendously when it comes to social interactions. As a ninth grader Kyra was fairly introspective and shy, and wouldn't participate in class. We had many conversations about how she had such great things to say and should be afraid to participate. I could tell when she walked into my room as a junior that she had a reinvigorated confidence. She was an active participant in class even though as an introvert I knew it was outside of her comfort zone, yet Kyra understood what she needed to do to succeed.

Kyra is a sponge when it comes to learning, and will bring a sense of wonder to your school community. You would be remiss to pass on Kyra Hill.

Sincerely,

To whom it may concern,

I have had the honor and privilege of knowing Kyra Hill at Harrisburg High School - SciTech Campus for the past two years. She has a very high capacity to perform outstanding work. She has always produced excellent work and demands the same excellence from others. While quiet and unassuming, Kyra's talents garner a great respect from her peers. I have witnessed her development over this time as a student who was able to work on assignments with little help or assistance from myself to a student that has the ability to find the connections to the everyday world and deeper meaning that is so rarely achieved by a high school student. She has exemplified maturity and decorum at all times and in many different settings. Her insight belies her years as she approaches material with a wisdom that is uncommon for a high school student.

Kyra's achievements do not only exist in the classroom, as she has been a member of a wide array of volunteer opportunities, including craft kits for children in local hospitals. Kyra has also volunteered at the Tri County Community Action Center and was later employed there. She has also worked for UPS. Kyra would eventually like to pursue a career as a psychologist and her even demeanor and care of others would make her a natural in this field. Personally, I have found that Kyra's work ethic and preparation are outstanding.

I am proud to have known and been a part of the development of this upstanding young woman. I know of very few high school students who compare with Ms. Hill. If I can ever be of assistance, I may be reached at (717) 703-1900. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Kevin P. Varano
